Simplicity is More Sustainable

Part of sustainability is about longevity and how long a product can or will be reused. Simplistic design is one way to ensure maximum use of your branded product. Thoughtful decoration is another. With consumers wanting products that match their values, items that are message-driven sell better than items that are only brand-driven. Pairing a brand with a message that resonates is key.

Layering Up for Fall

What's better than one item with your brand on it? Layers on layers of classic styles paired together that will carry through season after season. Whether the agenda is full of fall festivities and outdoor adventures or game days and tailgates, the options for essential layering pieces to transition to cooler days and breezier nights is vast.

1. Base Layers

Your basic lightweight option that can be worn alone or as the first layer of your outfit. Think tees in bold fall colors and patterns that can easily transition to other seasons.

2. Secondary Layers

Your middle layer. Think vests, flannels, shirt-jackets and quarter-zips. You can stop there or add an outer layer.

3. Outer Layers

A protective outerwear piece that is both functional and fashionable. From soft shells to puffers.
